New pop-up cycleway in your neighbourhood

December 2020

Transforming Parramatta's streets to protect your health

Transport for NSW is working with City of Parramatta Council to deliver a new pop-up cycleway (see map over the page) as part of the NSW Government's response to COVID-19 to give you safe travel options. This is a key public health measure being delivered on the advice of our health experts.

A new connection

A new pop-up cycleway will soon be installed in your neighbourhood to connect the M4 cycleway to the Harris Park train station.

The route offers local residents a continuous path to recreational locations in Parramatta and Sydney Olympic Park.

The connection will also make it safer and easier for people to ride to work or school.

The pop-up cycleway also offers the local community a safe route for exercise.

New pathways for active transport

Pop-up location

The planned cycleway will start at Cambridge Street, Harris Park (from the shared path near Harris Park train station). It will connect to the M4 cycleway via Wigram Street, Parramatta.

The cycleway will be approximately 2.4 metres wide and include two lanes, one in each direction. It will be located between the kerb and traffic lanes or parking spaces and have a physical barrier to parked cars for cyclist safety.

The placement of the cycleway may result in some loss of parking. As the design is in development, parking loss is yet to be determined. Transport for NSW is working closely with City of Parramatta Council to minimise any changes to parking.

Installation

The work is planned to be delivered in the coming months.

Our work may cause traffic disruption at times, so some work may take place at night. It may also be noisy and so we will complete the noisier activities by midnight, with hand tools used where possible. On-site equipment will also be limited to reduce the impact on parking spaces.

More information about the installation of the cycleway will be sent shortly.
